BACKGROUND:

The Rawang Bypass project involves the construction of a new road alignment to bypass a section of Route 1 that currently passes through the busy Rawang town. This new alignment runs along the eastern side of the town and cuts through a hilly and environmentally-sensitive forested heritage park which has been a traditional location for family outings, nature lovers and eco-tourists. Major mitigation initiatives were considered in its engineering design, including the construction of a viaduct and localised cutting of the slopes. Movement of wildlife is made possible below the entire stretch of the viaduct. A careful construction methodology is being used with the view to mitigate disturbance to the existing environment and ecosystem during construction.
